Westminster College

Enrollment: 1563

We all grow—physically, intellectually, spiritually. College is a haven for growth; the academic environment inspires students to reach their full cerebral potential and better understand their ever-expanding world. Westminster is an especially exceptional environment for growth: the small campus causes our hearts and minds to develop more fully with each professor we encounter, each roommate we learn to love, and each classmate we befriend.

Westminster itself is always growing, in terms of student population, academic reputation, and technological achievements. Although we all eventually mature and depart our close-knit community, Westminster is always a part of us as a cherished phase of our lives—a phase we'll never grow out of.

Fresh Start

The event that has to be the biggest of the fall semester is Fresh Start weekend, which took place this year from Friday, August 28th, to Monday, August 31st. This year there were 451 freshmen who were led by four Fresh Start Leaders per Inquiry group of around 20 students. "Our goal in Fresh Start is to provide plenty of entertainment to prevent students from going home a lot," states Camille Hawthorne, who leads the Fresh Start Program, along with Senior Coordinator Lane McFarland and Junior Coordinator Jayne Piskorik. Some of the activities which took place were the picnic with President Dorman, Titan Traverse, the discussion of Lori Lansens' book, "The Girls," Late Night Talent Show, and the second annual Reggae Dance, where Rudy and the Professionals performed in the Berlin Lounge. Fresh Start resulted in a successful weekend; Senior Fresh Start Leader Stephanie Zubyk states, "I think it went real good, and I feel we keep on improving every year."

Gateway Clipper

Approximately four-hundred students attended the Gateway Clipper Cruise on Friday, September 4th, 2009, which was held in Pittsburgh in Station Square, on the Majestic. The cruise was a semi-formal dance, providing plenty of entertainment, whether it was dancing inside the boat, or outside socializing with friends, enjoying the wonderful sights of Pittsburgh. This social event was sponsored by the Campus Programming Council, and students only had to pay five dollars to attend, ten dollars for non-Westminster students. Transportation was provided, and the eight Coach buses departed from campus at 9:30 p.m. The event lasted from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m., and it proved to be a great success. Sophomore Cassie Seaman comments, "I loved it and I had so much fun dancing and hanging with my friends."

Homecoming

The Homecoming Parade, one of the most anticipated events of the Homecoming weekend, is a Westminster tradition that seems to get better every year. This year's theme, "TV Land," was met with numerous creative and innovative floats, including themes like Batman, Gilligan's Island, Happy Days, and the winning theme, Kappa Delta's version of The Brady Bunch revised as "The KD Bunch." Participants in the parade traveled along the regular New Wilmington route surrounded by bundled-up onlookers and preceded by the ever dynamic Westminster Marching Band. "The parade was a lot of fun," said Kappa Delta sister Amanda Murphy. "Winning 'best float' was one of the highlights of the weekend for us, and the prize money was a great benefit to our organization."

Homecoming

Homecoming weekend proved to be successful not only for Greek representatives, but for the football team as well. After four quarters and one overtime, the Titans successfully defeated the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets 49-42. Anybody, whether it was alumni, current students, or family visiting, had the chance to enjoy the annual Homecoming parade, which took place on Saturday, October 10, 2009, before the football game. The marching band performed, while the sororities and fraternities presented the floats they all made, and Kappa Delta ended up winning. During halftime at the game, the Homecoming court was announced, and Katie Gray of Phi Mu won Homecoming Queen, while Matt Monahan of Alpha Sigma Phi won Homecoming King. Gray comments, "I was shocked I won Homecoming Queen and I think Homecoming was, overall, a lot of fun."

Fall Theater

Rabbit Hole

Theatre Westminster's first production of the year was Rabbit Hole, the 2007 Pulitzer Prize-winning play by David Lindsay-Abaire. Starring seniors Ben Portz and Allyson King, the play focused on a couple grieving over the death of their young son. With freshman Dan Rutowski and senior Kristyn Gecina in supporting roles, the play was set entirely at the couple's household, designed expertly by Westminster's stage crew. "I really enjoyed the show," said junior Ben Mornweck. "It was heart-wrenching, but the fine acting definitely made it watchable and quite enjoyable."

Premium

Premium, an original play by Westminster senior English major Amanda Ehrhardt, premiered November 12-15 in Beeghly Theatre. Written as the creative portion of Ehrhardt's honors capstone, Premium is the story of romance and scandal within the modern day insurance industry. Starring sophomore Chelsea Gallo as "femme fatale" Nicole Kline, sophomore Derek Fredrickson as the protagonist Robert Fischer, and sophomore James

Bonetti as his foul-mouthed co-worker, Premium was a hit on campus and an entry in the Kennedy Center American College Theater Festival. "The show was great," said senior Courtney Kelso. "I was really impressed with how well-written a play by a student could be."

Christmas Vespers

Westminster's annual Christmas Vespers service was held Sunday, December 13 at 7pm in Orr Auditorium. This year's program was entitled "Telling the Story, Lessons, and Carols," and included Rev. James Mohr's sermon "If This is Your Faith, What's the Story?" Vespers also featured performances by the handbell choirs, percussion ensemble, gospel choir, and other choral and instrumental groups on campus. The funds collected during the service were donated to aid the student spring break work trips. "It was one of the nicest Vespers services I've seen in a while," said senior Katie Schroll, who was also part of the women's chorus, "Christmas Vespers is always a special occasion."

Misenthrope

Theater Westminster's Production of Moliere's The Misanthrope was held the weekend of February 19th in Beeghly Theatre. Tony Harrison's updated version of Moliere's original play, The Misanthrope is the story of Alceste, a misanthrope caught between his hatred for high society and his love for Celimene, a social butterfly. The play starred David Lynch as Alceste, Claudia Brown as Celimene, and Amanda Ehrhardt, Will Armentrout, Christian Heasley, and Allyson King in supporting roles. The Misanthrope was under the direction of Lester Malizia, a founding member of the New Theater in New York and a former Westminster student.

Theater Westminster presented Lillian Hellman's The Children's Hour the weekend of May 7th, 2010. Directed by adjunct faculty member John Gresh, the play is based on a true story about the grave repercussions of a lie that spins out of control. Starring Nicole Hockenberry, Tegan McCune, Derek Fredrickson, Kristen Fedon, and other members of Theater Westminster, The Children's Hour was a success. "It was one of the better plays I've seen at Beechly Theater," said senior Michelle Bistrice. "It was a great final play to see during my time at Westminster."

Dance Theater

This year, Dance Theater focused on a tribute to the King of Pop, Michael Jackson. The introduction to the show began with a dance accompanying a medley of Jackson's most popular songs. The rest of the show consisted of fun and creative dance numbers performed by dancers with various levels of experience. Junior Sara Ergen reflects on the performance: "This year's Dance Theater performance was definitely one of my favorites. I am a huge Michael Jackson fan, so I was really excited about incorporating his music in our show and also our theme of everyone coming together. Overall, I think it went well and was so proud to see everyone's hard work pay off in the end!" Junior Candace Okello agrees, "This year's show was also another showcase of incredible talent; I never cease to be amazed by the amount of creativity, talent, and passion of these dancers."

It was a beautiful Saturday, and everyone enjoyed the spring sunshine and reflected on an event that helps so many. Current students, alumni, parents, friends of the college, and cancer survivors were all in attendance, sharing in the various activities that the brothers provided this year. There was Hillbilly Golf, jousting, knocking down milk jugs, corn hole, tag football, and even some pick up soccer matches. People of all ages could be seen walking the track to help raise money for such a worthy cause. This year, with the help and support of many people, Alpha Sigma Phi's Relay for Life raised $26,500. "I think the event just continues to get better," says senior Will Ballas. "We raised $10,000 more than we did when my senior class were freshman." The annual Volleyrock tournament sponsored by SGA was held the weekend of May 7th. With registration, students received water bottles, wristbands, t-shirts, photos from a photo booth, an inflatable obstacle course, and other amenities throughout the weekend. On Friday night, students had the opportunity to attend an outdoor concert at the amphitheater featuring Bon.Journey and Eve 6. Graduation - Class of 2010

Commencement for the Westminster Class of 2010 was held Saturday, May 22 in the Field House. Faculty, staff, students, family, and friends gathered to celebrate the academic success of those graduating seniors. Those students who graduated cum laude and with all-College Honors were recognized at the ceremony for their outstanding academic performances as well. The senior commencement speaker was Lurene McDonald, a Public Relations major active in SGA, SWAT, Greek Life, and numerous other organizations during her time at Westminster. McDonald spoke to her peers and their families about the "signs" students encounter during the Westminster experience.

"A Walk Down Westminster Way"

When many members of the Class of 2010 walked onto campus over four years ago as prospective students, we may have been taken a little aback. People we didn't know opened doors for us. They said hello to us as we walked across campus, and they smiled as we passed them by. It was not a typical college visit. There was a refreshing positive attitude on campus and somehow we just fit in. When we asked our tour guides if people were always this friendly, their response was, "Yeah, pretty much; it's the Westminster Way." Our tour guides and everyone else made us feel welcome, but we didn't really understand what the "Westminster Way" meant until we started our own journey at WC.

The "Westminster Way" has been a buzz phrase on our campus since President Dorman and the Board of Trustees published the new strategic plan for the college. And while I could sit here and list all the tangible and intangible things encompassed in the Westminster Way, it would just be a list. Instead I would like to present the "Westminster Way" as more than a series of words, but as a road.

You see, when I think of the "Westminster Way," I automatically picture a bright green street sign with those words emblazoned across it. The sign is atop a pole placed on the outside edge of campus. It marks a road which leads you through your time at Westminster. It's a continuous road, but you often have yield to your surroundings. Today, I would like you to take a walk with me down Westminster Way where we will come to a yield, go through a construction zone, take a detour, and approach a stop sign while reminiscing over our time at college.

Yield: Fresh Start. A team of upper class student volunteers went out of their way by first heaving all our stuff up the stairs, then leading us through the scary beginning of college life. You probably thought, "This must be another selling point, right? It's to impress our parents one more time or something." Nope. It's just the Westminster Way. I'm sure all of us can remember those friendly students who helped us move in and rearrange our rooms or assisted us through otherwise uncertain times. People go out of their way here for you everyday, whether they know you or not. It is a characteristic that is emulated by our students, faculty, and staff on a regular basis.

Construction Zone Ahead: Building a Family. When you started college, you probably didn't know too many people at Westminster. We were forced to begin again. For some of us, this was a scary concept. But what we didn't realize is that the people we would meet here would change our lives. Friends would offer us more than friendship. They would become our family, our encouragers, and our rocks in hard times. They would laugh with us, cry with us, and stick with us. I know I spent many sleepless nights, sitting in my sorority suite hallway sharing my joys, my fears, and recently, my hopes for the future with my sisters. My experience is not a unique one. Many of us have spent endless hours in the TUB telling stories, sharing inside jokes, and enjoying the company our Westminster family. It's a family I know that I'm sad to leave behind, but hope to carry with me in the future. We also found family members in the faculty and staff here. They did more than teach us particular subjects in a classroom. They taught us about life. They challenged and encouraged us. They inspired us to become better people both in and outside of the classroom. They told us all the things that we could be, that we deserved to be, even when we didn't believe it yet. Westminster is more than a college. The people here are a community and more importantly a family. People here will support you and your cause, even if it means extra work for them.

Detour: The Class Outside Your Comfort Zone. Westminster is a liberal arts institution. This is one of its great, but challenging characteristics. What being a liberal arts college means is we each probably took at least one class completely out of our comfort zone. We were forced to work extra hard to succeed. Despite your best efforts, you may have even received a poor grade, one which did not exemplify the quality of student you actually are. When you received this grade, you probably talked to someone about it. Maybe it was a friend on campus or if you were smart, it was your professor. I remember taking one of these challenging courses which was completely different than the public relations curriculum I had become accustomed to. My first midterm grade in the class did not reflect the student I was. I was forced to learn differently. When I received this grade, I was sure to talk to others in the class and my professor and did what was necessary to be successful in the coursework. My professor knew I was a better student than what that one particular grade represented and he gave me the opportunity to prove it. I'm sure many Westminster students have had similar experiences. Our friends, peers, and professors did not leave us behind during difficult times. They told us where to find help or how to succeed. Many times this assistance extended outside of the classroom. We were taught how to excel here by people who went out of their way to help us.

The Last Stop Sign: Today. And here we are today at the last stop on Westminster Way. When we started our journey at WC, we could have chosen many other roads besides this one. But Westminster was the right road for us. As we stand at the stop sign at the end of the Way, we are faced with numerous options for what road we should take from here. All of us will travel a different route from this day on. However, we will always be able to carry with us all that we learned while walking down Westminster Way. As we leave here to embark on a new road always remember the people and actions that have gotten you to this place today and pay it forward to other travelers. Remember to go out of your way for other people. Work hard not only to succeed personally, but assist others in finding success. And remember to support those who surround you, even if it means more work for you. If you do this, you will never leave your days at Westminster behind because your life will be filled with the Westminster Way.

Congratulations Class of 2010. Today our new journey, down a new road, begins.

Geek Week

Geek Week, held each fall, is Hoyt's resident academic competition. Teams comprised of individuals from each department go head to head over the course of five days. Each of the Math, Psychology, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics departments "hosts" one night during the week. For example, this year the Biology department's event involved running to various rooms in Hoyt and answering questions to receive pieces that were needed to complete the final challenge. At the end of the week, the team with the most points earned in various challenges is awarded the Geek Week trophy, which is proudly held by the professors of the department until it is earned by another team the following week. This year's winners were The "Titrating Titans," including team members Melissa Joseph, Lynn Kiley, Aaron Bruck, Elizabeth Ross, and Emily Wall. "I have been a part of this event for three years and I believe it is a great way for getting science majors from various fields to broaden their horizons," said senior Alex Alfieri. "Not only does Geek Week inspire friendly competition between departments, but more importantly it requires you to step out of the comfort of your own field and to challenge yourself in new ways."

Honors Convocation

On Saturday, April 24, faculty, students, staff, and parents gathered for the annual Honors Convocation in Our Auditorium. Hundreds of students were honored for their accomplishments, such as Dean's list recognition, departmental awards, and other scholarships awarded for academics, leadership, and service. President Dorman spoke highly of Westminster's most accomplished students, commending them for their fine work and research, some of which was presented earlier in the day during the URAC (Undergraduate Research and Arts Celebration).

Study Abroad

Numerous Westminster students had the opportunity to study abroad in the Fall of 2009—thirty-two in London, two in France, two in Italy, and one in Costa Rica. Each of them had experiences that they will never forget and moments that can never be replaced. They met a wide range of people who helped them along their journey and experienced a culture completely different from their own. They lived for three months (some a little longer) in new surroundings and with new people. Junior Matt Bickert reflects on the once in a lifetime opportunity that he experienced in Rome, Italy. "Every time I look at pictures, I miss it more," Bickert said. "It opens your eyes to a whole new culture and makes you realize that there's so much more out there beyond this campus."

Opera Westminster

Wiener Blut

Todd Slobodnyak

Karen Biddle

Wiener Blut was held Saturday, October 31st, 2009 in Orr Auditorium. Directed by Dr. Bentz, the two acts opera starred Westminster music and theater students. According to senior Deanna Owens, the story was mainly a "comedy of confusion." The story took place in Vienna, Germany, with the leading characters consisting of two males and three females. For the audience to understand the story, the dialogue was spoken in English while the music was performed in German. The music included performances by Karen Biddle, Jessica Mriso, and Todd Slobodnyak.

The story told of a count who was already married, but had several comical affairs with women. In the end, the count ends up falling back in love with his wife. Owens added, "I think the opera went well and all smoothly. It was a good turnout, more than I expected, and it was great we got many compliments by the faculty."

Choir Tour

In January, members of the Concert Choir traveled across Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York on their annual choir tour. This year, approximately 45 students performed in various cities, including Harrisburg, Philadelphia, New York City, Toms River, NJ, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and Erie. They performed at the Capital Building in Harrisburg.

While in New York City, they saw Ragtime on Broadway, took a dinner cruise around the Hudson Bay and saw the Statue of Liberty.

There was a lot of down-time at each stop, and the students were able to explore. They saw landmarks like the Empire State Building, Times Square, Central Park, the Liberty Bell, Niagara Falls and many others.

The tour stopped at the Jersey Shore, and some students were brave enough to venture into the cold water. The students were also fortunate enough to sing at choir member Monty Service's church in Buffalo, and spent an afternoon in the Service's home for lunch and relax time.

Joining the students on the tour were professors Dr. and Mrs. Perttu, Reverend Mohr, and Dr. Lind's husband.

Everyone had a great time.

"No matter the letter,

we're all Greek together!"

Greek Week

Greeks raised over $8,000 for charity during the college's annual Greek Week, a showcase of competitiveness and cooperation among all Greeks. Greek Week events included a pie-eating contest, Tug-of-War, rock climbing, and more. The winners of the movie-themed Sing n' Swing were Theta Chi and Zeta Tau Alpha. The overall winners of Greek Week were Alpha Gamma Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon. "No matter who wins, Greek Week is always a fun time," said Kappa Delta sister Courtney Kelso. "Just participating in the events and spending time with your brothers or sisters is a great reward!" Greek Life was subsequently chosen as SGA's student organization of the month for such a successful Greek Week.

This year's winners were Zeta Tau Alpha, who danced to the soundtrack from "A Knight's Tale" and Theta Chi, who danced to the soundtrack from "Sister Act." Other groups danced to the likes of "Spice World," "Epic Movie," "Singin' in the Rain," and "Tarzan." "Although I watched and cheered for my own sorority, it was fun to watch everyone," said sophomore Dawn McDonough. "Everyone did a fantastic job. It was the highlight of Greek Week!"

10 Years Ago...

Although the spirit of Westminster has not changed much over the years, its buildings have. Older buildings such as the original Old Main and West Hall, which housed the English department, have since burned down and been replaced by newer facilities. The rebuilt Old Main, destroyed by fire in both 1861 and 1927, still stands today and houses administrative offices and classrooms. Thompson Clark, although it was built in 1863, was completely demolished in 2001, containing faculty offices (including the English department) displaced by the West Hall fire. Classrooms, labs, and a communications center. The oldest building on campus remains Hillside Hall, which houses undergraduate women, while the newest addendum on campus is Berlin Village, constructed in 2005. More changes and additions are set for the future. Westminster aspirations continue to soar, but despite the changes to the facade of campus, its warm atmosphere and rapport between students and staff will remain the same for years to come.

Thompson Clark Hall, which houses communications, English, and Modern Languages, undergoes numerous changes to its facade. The renovations enabled additions to the communications center and provided more room for the college audio visual lab and radio station.

TOP THREE
Construction on McKelvey Campus Center, named for alumnus Andrew McKelvey. What we now know as modern-day Shaw and its parking lot were much different before the addition was completed.

BOTTOM TWO
Construction in progress on Remick Admissions house, which houses the admissions team, financial aid, and SWAT.

At Westminster, we all grow—spiritually, academically, and socially. However, no matter how much we grow after we leave Westminster, we will never grow out of Westminster. It will always have a place in our hearts, and members of the campus community will always cherish the special memories and relationships that grow out of the Westminster experience.

Even as Westminster grows and changes with time, it retains its special sense of community and warm environment. No matter how it grows, Westminster is a school that always fits.

From the Editor...

Four years ago, I started a new life here at Westminster College. As a freshman, I was on the yearbook photography staff. At the end of the school year, the opportunity to become the next Argo Editor-in-Chief arose. I jumped at the chance, and it has been a wonderful journey ever since. Being editor of this cherished publication has enabled me to grow as a leader and as a person. Even throughout the stress and frustrations, I would not have traded this experience for anything.

This book would not have been possible without the dedication of my staff members. Ali, Britt, Amanda, James, Kelly, and Cody: Thank you all from the bottom of my heart for the hours of work you have put into every aspect of this book. I believe it is phenomenal, and I'm so proud of each one of you for enabling this book to go to the next level. I could not have done it without you.

A huge thank you also goes to Connie McGinnis, our wonderful advisor who has constantly supported me throughout these past years, David Bollman of HerffJones, who has always been there to answer all of my questions and help me with everything, Jen Poltrack and all of the HerffJones photographers, Deans Edman and Hawthorne, everyone in the Student Affairs office, Physical Plant, the Student Publications Board, and President Dorman. Thank you to the students who provided us with quotes, photos, and any other information we needed.

It is hard for me to believe that my time as yearbook editor has come to a close, but I am excited to pass the opportunity on to my successor. I look forward to seeing the changes and growth that the future holds for the yearbook and for the College.
